“Our goal is to ‘hire from within.’ We take personal interest in each employee, as do most employers. However, we feel the two most important things we do to show the employees we value them is to simultaneously let them alone to do their job and work along side of them. One of my favorite bosses always said, ‘The best predictor of future success is past performance’ and as a result, 11 of the 12 Saul Good managers came up through the ranks.”
